An Eagle Owl by Graham Fox

We are attracted to the second drawing by the arrow. The first portrait of Gustav Holst and the third of 'Lili' Boulanger, are named with surnames first followed by an initial. They are both composers.

This suggests that the arrowed, second drawing is also of a composer whose name should be written in the same way. This second is Edward Elgar to be written ELGAR.E. The portrait is inverted suggesting we might reverse the letters to get ERAGLE. The arrow contains a sign to bar the letter 'R'. The answer is EAGLE.

The photograph shows an owl, an Eagle Owl!
